

Dear Sirs,

Being aware that the use of natural fur in the clothing industry is a subject arousing much emotion and controversy, we would like to emphasize that OCHNIK S.A. does not diminish the issue of animal welfare bred on fur farms.

OCHNIK S.A., as one of the most recognizable brands in the Polish fashion industry, firmly opposes the use of unethical and cruel practices that expose fur animals to unnecessary suffering. We strongly disapprove every case of animal abuse and unworthy treatment of animals. Animals raised on farms should be provided with the best possible conditions to respect their rights. Fur farms must undergo regular checks and inspections to eliminate unprofessional breeders who treat animals inhumanely.

Animal welfare is a very important issue regarding cooperation between OCHNIK S.A. and entities delivering fur to the brand products. For this reason we ask you to share information about fur acquiring procedures and conditions in which animals are bred. As a company with long tradition in conducting responsible business, we need to be certain that all suppliers fully share and understand our official position concerning animal welfare.

We kindly ask you to update us with the necessary documents confirming that production of animal origin materials meet legal standards and ethical principles regarding full respect for animal rights. Please deliver official certificates assuring the transparency of the supply and production process.

Yours faithfully,

Marcin Ochnik, CEO
